NASSAU, Bahamas — The Sigmas and AKAs stepped into first place at this year's November 9th Homecoming Stepshow.

The University of The Bahamas' auditorium came alive as students, alumni, and faculty gathered for the highly anticipated show at the Kendall Isaac Gym.

Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity, Inc.'s Beta Beta Lambda chapter stole the spotlight, winning the men's division with a dynamic and precise performance that electrified the audience.

Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity claimed second place with a polished, high-energy performance, while Omega Psi Phi Fraternity placed third, winning over the audience with bold chants and strong steps.

Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity rounded out the competition in fourth place, performing a routine rooted in their fraternity's deep history and pride.

Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority's Tau Nu Chapter, the only sorority to compete, took a graceful yet powerful victory, delivering a routine in their signature pink and green with skin-tight body suits that captivated the crowd.

Adding to the night's excitement, Sigma Gamma Rho Sorority showcased an exhibition step performance, delighting the crowd with their signature moves.

The Homecoming Show was a powerful celebration of unity, spirit, and the traditions that make UB a vibrant community.

As the cheers and applause echoed through the campus, it was clear that the event's impact would resonate well beyond the evening, fueling excitement for next year's showdown and a hunger for more showings by UB's Greek-lettered organizations.
